SUBJECT: Random Moment Sampling – Training and Implementation

PURPOSE: This memorandum outlines the procedures for statewide training and implementation of random moment sampling (RMS) for child protective investigators, senior child protective investigators, and family support workers.

BACKGROUND: Florida's ability to fund child welfare services via the Title IV-E waiver program will end September 30, 2019. A potential $90 million gap in federal funding is projected as a result. A significant part of Florida's plan to close that funding gap involves claiming for allowable activities performed by Child Protective Investigators (both DCF and Sheriff). This claiming must be validated by a Random Moment Sampling (RMS) process.

Activities related to the assessment of the home situation, to safety plan development and monitoring, referral to services (including Medicaid and Food Stamps), and to out-of-home care placement are allowable for federal funding. Activities specific to the investigation are not allowable for federal reimbursement, so it is imperative that we appropriately capture and document activities being performed by frontline staff.

ACTION REQUIRED: The Office of Child Welfare in conjunction with the Office of Revenue Management and Florida's Center for Child Welfare (Center) has designed a two-hour webinar training to provide instruction on how to complete the random moment sampling activity. Due to the criticality of this project, this is mandatory training for all child protective investigators, senior child protective investigators, and family support workers in Florida.

The webinar will be comprised of three parts:

- Part 1: Why Is RMS Important?
- Part 2: How the RMS Process Works (e.g., how CPIs are contacted, etc.)
- Part 3: Programmatic Activity Examples (how does a CPI know what to select)

Three live webinar sessions are also scheduled:

- August 13 – 1:00 p.m.
- August 14 – 10:00 a.m.
- August 15 – 1:00 p.m.

1317 Winewood Boulevard, Tallahassee, Florida 32399-0700

Mission: Work in Partnership with Local Communities to Protect the Vulnerable, Promote Strong and Economically Self-Sufficient Families, and Advance Personal and Family Recovery and Resiliency

These webinars will add a 'Question and Answer' component at the end of each session. Frequency Asked Questions (FAQs) will also be updated on the Center's RMS page regularly.

A 'Live Web Event Invitation' is attached to facilitate registration. The recorded version of the webinar will be released on August 19, 2019. The Center will be monitoring participation and issuing certificates of completion.

To ensure frontline staff are sufficiently prepared for implementation of random moment sampling activities, all frontline staff must watch the recorded session or participate in one of the live webinars by August 31, 2019.
